Home Heating Safety – Fall 2022

Electric Space Heaters

- Only use space heaters that have UL or FM tested and approved listed on their labels.
- Position at least 3-feet away from anything combustible such as curtains, furniture, bedding, paper, and decorations during the holiday season. Never place clothing, hats, or mittens on space heaters to dry.
- Always turn off space heaters when leaving the room or going to sleep.
- Ensure your space heater has an automatic safety shut-off switch that turns it off in the event the heater tips over.
- Avoid using extension cords or power strips with your space heater, and do not plug multiple space heaters into the same outlet. Always unplug your space heater when not in use.

Wood/Pellet Stoves & Fireplaces

- Should be serviced annually by a qualified technician. Chimneys, flues, and exhaust pipes should be cleaned annually by a certified professional.
- Ensure wood stoves are on their own separate flue from any other furnace or heat source.
- Allow ashes to cool completely and use a non-combustible metal container to dispose of ashes.
- Do not vacuum ashes with a household vacuum.
- Only burn dried and seasoned wood in your fireplace/wood stove. Refer to the manufacturer's instructions and only burn the recommended pellets in your pellet stove.
- During the holiday season, use caution and position all decorations at least 3-feet away from your stove/fireplace.

As consumers, we’re all experiencing the impacts of the current economic inflation, rising energy costs included. Over the past year, average heating oil prices have increased 50%; natural gas by 18%; and propane by 42%; to some of the highest prices in decades.

Heading into the winter heating season, higher heating costs can put a strain on household budgets and make alternative heating sources an attractive solution.

Keep your home warm and your family safe this winter by reviewing these secondary heat source safety recommendations and taking preventative steps to avoid an accident. View this PDF from our colleagues at MMG Insurance.
